

Al-Franj: the Crusaders in the Levant | Journey of an Islamic Minbar

‘The minbar arrived in its prestigious new home at the Ibrahimi Mosque in Hebron.’

The minbar arrived in its prestigious new home at the Ibrahimi Mosque in Hebron, the resting place of several biblical prophets, including Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Due to its association with the Prophet Abraham the mosque is also sacred to Muslims, for according to the Islamic faith Abraham is the father of all the prophets in whose footsteps the Prophet Muhammad was encouraged to follow.

Name:
Haram al-Ibrahimi

Dynasty:
First century BC; AH 492 / AD 1099 From the Roman period to the end of the Ottoman period

Details:
Hebron (al-Khalil), Palestine*

Justification:
View of the minbar in situ to the right of the mihrab in the Haram al-Ibrahimi.

Name:
Haram al-Ibrahimi

Dynasty:
First century BC; AH 492 / AD 1099 From the Roman period to the end of the Ottoman period

Details:
Hebron (al-Khalil), Palestine*

Justification:
View looking into the prayer hall of the Haram where the minbar was relocated.

Name:
Haram al-Ibrahimi

Dynasty:
First century BC; AH 492 / AD 1099 From the Roman period to the end of the Ottoman period

Details:
Hebron (al-Khalil), Palestine*

Justification:
Aerial view of the Haram al-Ibrahimi.
